Inscape Restructures to Support Growth

June 19, 2017 – Brian Mirsky, CEO, Inscape Corporation Ltd. (TSX: INQ), announces the following organizational changes, effective immediately.

Inscape is making changes to align leadership capabilities to better support the growth of its two operating units: Inscape (Inscape systems, storage, architectural walls and seating products) and West Elm Workspace with Inscape (all products related to partnership with West Elm).

“We are evolving our organizational structure to maximize the potential of both business units,” said Brian Mirsky, CEO. “Moving to a matrix organization leverages our resources and talent more efficiently to deliver value for the entire organization.”

Glen Snelling, Vice President of Operations, will lead Supply Chain and Operations support for both Inscape and West Elm Workspace business units. John Gols, Executive Vice President Sales + Distribution, will continue to lead the company’s Sales and Sales Resource teams, newly bolstered by the addition of new West Elm Workspace Brand Specialists and Operations support.

With these structural changes, Jim Stelter, President of the West Elm Workspace with Inscape business unit, will be retiring from the company. “Since joining Inscape in January 2014, Jim has helped create and implement our Strategic Growth Plan and he has made significant contributions identifying and developing the West Elm Workspace with Inscape growth opportunity. We wish him all the best,” said Mirsky.
